REPORT INCORRECT

Not since 1932 has there been a stoppage of work in Coleman due to labor disputes, therefore the report in Tuesday's Lethbridge Herald that "There have been a number of 24-hour-strikes in Coleman" is incorrect.

Coleman Contributes $1,300 to War Services Drive

Negotiations Between Union And Companies Break Down; Stoppage of Work Results

No Wage Dispute Involved; "Closed Shop" Demanded by U.M.W.A.; Pickets Placed at Mine Approaches at Mid-night Monday; Everything Quiet.

Members of the United Mine Workers of America, Coleman branch, decided by vote at a meeting on Sunday to strike if the International and McGillivray companies would not concede to the demands of union officials for a "closed shop."

Since 1932, when a home local was organized, following a strike called by the then Communist controlled Mine Workers Union of Canada, (now defunct) continued efforts have been made by the U.M.W.A. to secure recognition as the sole bargaining agency with the companies. The companies since 1932 have recognized the home local, known as Coleman Miners' Association, which has no affiliation with an international organization, and this is the first labor dispute in nine years. It was the home local which broke Communist control of the outlaid union in Coleman in 1932.

The U.M.W.A. has persistently carried on a campaign to get members of the home local into its ranks. About 130 of them refuse to join the U.M.W.A. and as the companies refuse to compel these men to join the U.M.W.A. against their own will, the U.M.W.A. decided to call a strike in the effort to enforce a "closed shop," whereby all workers must become U.M.W.A. members and pay dues through the customary check-off system. The strike went into effect Monday night.

The companies issued the following statement to the Press:

"The present dispute, by which 800 mine employees are thrown out of work, involves no wage dispute.

"The Coleman miners are paid higher or equal rates with all other miners of this district. The Coleman miners are also paid Cost-of-living bonus, as applying to all other mines of the province. By this bonus, the men have their wages increased to compensate for cost of living increases, as determined by the board appointed by the government; for the duration of the war and one year thereafter.

"The companies have offered the miners a straight renewal of their contract, in return for which they ask that the wage agreements should not be re-opened until after the war, or as long as the cost-of-living commission is in operation.

"The U.M.W. of A. refuses to accept this proposal and is insisting on a "closed shop" whereby all employees will be forced into their membership and to pay dues to the United Mine Workers of America.

"About 130 local miners have refused to join their organization, and the strike is an attempt to force the companies to compel these men to join an organization, against their wishes. The companies have refused to do this, which has resulted in the stoppage of work."

Canadian Pacific Railway Place Heavy Steel Rails on Crow Line

Indicates Heavy Freight Train Through Here in Future; 45 Men Crew to Finish Job in Approximately Ten Days.

Work commenced on Monday by a crew of 45 men to replace a mile and a half stretch of rail of 85 pound steel with 100 pound steel. When completed it will give this sub-division line of the C.P.R. a stretch of heavy 100 pound rail from Crow's Nest to Macleod. Work commenced at a point in the line at East Coleman and will continue west. Six switches will also be included in the improvement.

As a result of the heavy rails having been laid it is expected that an increase in freight traffic through the Pass will be made. The work is expected to take ten days.

Results Far Exceed Quota; $200 More Expected Before Drive Ends On Saturday Evening

Miners Contribute Approximately $800; Business House And Sentinel District Contribute Approximately $500.

The magnificent sum of approximately $1300 has already been subscribed to Coleman War Services drive which started Monday, March 24, and which will come to a close on Saturday, April 6.

Campaign chairman Father L. Sullivan reveals that approximately $800 was subscribed by the miners and $500 by business houses, Sentinel power plant, Lime kiln, contractor and their employees.

Still to be solicited are a number of homes, the occupants of which were out when the canvassers called. The coal companies have promised a donation and when this is received the local committee expects the entire proceeds to be well over the quota. Coleman's quota is to be revealed by the committee next week. On Thursday evening there will be a meeting of the canvassers and executive to make a final check-up of subscriptions and homes still to be canvassed.

Opening of the united war services appeal for funds in Alberta has been followed by the announcement of federal authorities that the Red Cross will not be permitted to make another national appeal this year. War Services Minister Gardiner made the announcement in the Commons. Male Voice Choir Featured In Splendid Concert

Talented Artists Heard in Solo Numbers; Proceeds in Aid of Coleman's War Services Drive.

Lethbridge male voice choir were featured in an exceptionally entertaining concert in the community hall last evening. Coleman Lions sponsored the concert, the proceeds of which will be donated to the local campaign committee of the Canadian War Services drive. A good crowd from Pass towns was in attendance.

The choir of 24 male voices was conducted by Mr. Terry Horne, Mrs. Lillian Williamson and Mr. Ralph Johnson shared the duties of accompanists.

The soloists were encouraged again and again so splendid were their performances. George Kerr, violinist, formerly of Blairmore and now of Lethbridge, was one of the featured soloists.

Songs sung by the choir were: "Border Ballad," "Sleeping," "Invictus," "Worship of God," "Deep River," "Long Day Closes," "Hymn Before Action," "There Rolls the Deep," "Lost Chord," "George Kerr played 'Allegro Brillante,' 'Fraser's Serenade,' 'Consuetudo,' and 'Intermezzo.' W. Stott, vocalist, sang 'My Love' and 'Johnny Smoker.' Edgar Rannard, sang 'Worrying Wives' and 'Half A Pint of Ale.' Charles Daniel sang 'Song of Songs,' 'Yesterday and To-day,' 'River Say Away From My Door,' and 'Macaulay.' Conductor Terry Horne sang 'It Is Not Because Your Heart Is Mine,' 'Do You Know My Garden,' 'Sylvia,' 'The Little Clouds,' and 'I Heard You Go By.'

Following the concert the choir was split into several parties and each party entertained at the home of some member of the Lions club.

THAT'S MY CHEW

We Stand On Guard

With the intensification of warfare on the European continent and over Britain, warnings appearing frequently in the daily press, that Hitler is pursuing his policy of conquest on this continent by his underground methods of subversive propaganda designed to "soften up" the people in the hope first of rendering them indifferent and apathetic and later openly militant, if and when the time comes for overt acts, cannot be disregarded.

That this insidious and dangerous policy of paving the way for Nazi armed forces has proved successful everywhere in Europe except in Great Britain and Greece has been so amply demonstrated that the people of Canada and the United States cannot afford to be blind to its possibilities here, unless they are continually on the alert to detect the evil wherever it appears in underground channels indicate its presence, to reveal its existence wherever and whenever it is detected and to "smoke out the Nazis" in their lairs.

This does not mean that everyone whose native tongue is continental European is to be regarded as suspect. On the contrary, thousands of them, the great majority are as loyal to the British cause as is the entire Anglo-Saxon world, but there is a small minority among them who are ready and willing to serve the Nazi doctrine as there are a few Quislings even among the Anglo-Saxons. For our own protection, it is the duty of all of us, to bring to the attention of the proper authorities, the few who are indulging in nefarious practices designed to undermine our war effort, whether it be by word or deed. Constituted authority can be relied upon to take whatever steps may be necessary to render their machinations harmless.

A Great Loyal Body

As already stated, the vast body of Canadians of non-British origin in Western Canada are loyal to the cause of democracy to the core and disavow Nazism, Fascism, Communism and all other doctrines which constitute a threat to the continued existence of liberty and freedom of the individual.

And why wouldn't they be? For did they not come to this country because they espoused the doctrines of freedom and liberty, because they wanted to be assured of their personal right to think and speak and worship as they chose and to take advantage of all the opportunities and privileges afforded by a democratic regime?

If proof were needed as to where the great rank and file of these new Canadians stand on the great issues which are now being fought out, it is to be found in their own language newspapers published in this country and enjoying wide circulation among them. A few extracts from some of them indicates clearly what the great majority think about the issues of the war and the example which is being set by their leaders.

For example, the "Nya Svenska Pressen" (The Swedish Press), Vancouver says:

"We believe that Canada has done well. But the sooner that we realize that we must do better, and that it is our struggle as much as that of the people of Great Britain, the better it will be for our cause. We also believe that the Swedish people in Canada are as loyal to this cause as any national group. Hundreds of our men and boys have joined the service and we believe our people generally are giving their fullest support in other ways."

Another from "Narodna Gazeta" (People's Gazette), Ukrainian weekly published in Winnipeg:

"Farmers and workers cannot remain passive in the struggle. Working people are most vitally interested, because within the British democratic system they have a chance to achieve a better life and greater prosperity, to struggle by legal means for their rights and to work toward creation of a new society of toilers, without exploitation and force. Workers and farmers of Canada must stand, together with the British working classes, firmly and unswervingly on the defensive positions of our country. And this must be manifested by deeds and not by words."

The Croatian Voice, "Hrvatski Glas," published in Winnipeg makes the following appeal to its people:

"We, Canadian Croats, Serbs and Slovenes must prove to our new homeland in the current campaign that we fully appreciate its hospitality and the freedom which we have found here. . . The salvation of the whole world depends on a victory of Great Britain and of democracy in general."

For A Greater Faith

Nor is this sentiment confined to people from countries who might be expected to be Allies if they had the chance, as the following extract from an editorial in "Der Nordwesten," German language weekly published in Winnipeg, demonstrates:

"First and foremost, let all of us who have taken upon ourselves the privileges and responsibilities of Canadian citizenship fully realize that whatever ties of kinship and sentiment we may have with other lands, that Canada must claim our first allegiance. This will make it more difficult for undesirable elements to establish themselves among us. It will also help else, namely a greater faith in Canada and a much stronger unity of ideals to bring about what the people in this country need more than anything and purpose in making it a still greater and honored nation within the folds of the British Empire. . . Let us be ready to put into deeds and action the words of the National Anthem of our Dominion: 'O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.'"

The Canadian Legion

Good Work Being Done By Organization Aiding Enlisted Men

More than 7,000 members of the Veterans' Guard of Canada on duty at Internment camps are enjoying entertainment, recreation, and many types of personal comforts provided free by the Canadian Legion.

In most cases isolated from urban centres and subjected to all kinds of bad weather, these old soldiers of 1914-18 who have volunteered to guard the camps housing prisoners of war look to their comrades for the facilities that will help offset discomfort and monotony.

The Legion, which also carries on auxiliary services work on behalf of the navy, army and air force at home and in the Old Country, has supplied hundreds of thousands of sheets of free notepaper and envelopes, books, magazines, sports equipment and, with the assistance of Legion branches, radios and pianos. These comforts are available at all times in recreation rooms.

Legion officers have also rendered assistance to members of the Guard in adjusting private and domestic problems which the men could not attend to. In many instances, wives and families have been spared embarrassment and financial distress through the Legion's help.

This type of work is being carried out by all of Canada's auxiliary war services organizations for enlisted men. The money necessary to continue such efforts is provided by the public.

The Legion as well as the I.O.D.E. in the four western provinces, Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A., are making a joint nationwide appeal for $5,000,000 to ensure continuance of their efforts in Canada and overseas. The appeal is under the auspices of the Governor-General and the Princess Alice and will be the only national campaign for the men in uniform to be held in 1941.

Youth Training

Average Graduation Of About 4,000 Each Month

Confidence the objective of 50,000 graduates of vocational schools and 50,000 graduates of plant schools for jobs in war industry this year will be attained was expressed in the House of Commons by Labor Minister McLarty.

He said the war emergency training programme was a joint provincial-dominion undertaking based on the framework of the pre-war youth training plan.

Mr. McLarty said present enrolment in the vocational schools indicated an average graduation of about 4,000 each month. The output could be expanded as need arose and it was expected it would be larger during the summer months when high school students were on vacation.

It was difficult to get figures for the plant schools, said the minister, because the government contributed nothing to them. They were the responsibility of the industries concerned with trained men to fill their own requirements.

Air Training Plan

U.S. Has Furnished Many Trained Aviators For Instruction

In development of air training, Canada was fortunate in her proximity to the United States which has furnished from 200 to 400 trained aviators for instruction and ferrying tasks, the air minister, Hon. C. G. Power said in the House of Commons.

This had been an important factor in the speedy development of training facilities.

In addition to supplying trained men for Canada's air force the United States had produced from seven to 10 per cent of students in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Canadians—and this listing included the American students as well—made up 90 per cent of the pupils, the other 10 per cent coming from the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand.

Total Canadian air force personnel of all kinds in Canada at the moment was 3,400 officers and 42,732 airmen, the equivalent, Mr. Power said, of three infantry divisions.

Capture Lost Seal

Long-lost Oscar, a 175-pound seal, was captured after almost nine years' freedom in the warm waters of the Gulf Stream. Oscar hopped aboard a small fishing boat near Ragged Key, 12 miles south of Miami, Florida, enjoyed a meal of fish and was lauded by his hosts. At the aquarium, the seal was identified by Capt. Newton Knowles, who said Oscar escaped soon after being brought from Labrador nine years ago.

Powerful Tanks

Rolling Off The Assembly Line In Britain

Tanks like those that drove the Italians from Eastern Libya are rolling off an assembly line in Britain. They are so fast, powerful and ugly that a demonstration of what they can do is terrifying.

They are so heavily armored that only a heavy calibre shell can stop them. It is not permitted to give specifications, but it can be said that they are faster than most 1930 model American automobiles. (Medium-priced 1930 automobiles could hit 75 miles an hour).

Newspapermen stood in a reviewing stand and watched a demonstration. There was no firing, but the sight of that block of steel bearing down on us with the speed of a train, its tractors kicking up mud, motor roaring and cannon and machine-guns pointed at our heads, made us step back, even though we knew we were safe.

Directly in front of the stand the demonstrating tank dug its treads into the cinders, threw up a cloud of dust and came to a halt within a distance no greater than the tank's length.

In these tanks the power comes from Liberty type motors, the same type used in airplanes in the world war.

1 package Orange Jell-O
1 pint hot water
1 orange, sections free from membrane
1 banana, sliced
Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Pour about 1/2 of Jell-O into mold. Chill until firm. Chill remaining Jell-O until slightly thickened. Fold in orange sections and banana. Turn into mold over firm Jell-O layer. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve on crisp lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise for salad, or serve plain or with whipped cream for dessert. Serves six.

PEANUT BUTTER MACAROONS

2 egg whites
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup peanut butter
2 cups Kellogg's rice Krispies
Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold in sugar, flavoring and peanut butter. Add rice Krispies, stirring only enough to combine. Drop from teaspoon onto well-greased baking sheet; bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Yield: 1 1/2 dozen macaroons (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

Contrasts Are Ugly

Wealthy Chinese Spend Million On Balls While Poor Starve

China's press is depicting in ugly colors the sharp contrast between rich and poor in Shanghai. One of the stories concerns the festivities of Christmas eve. All Chinese ballrooms were crowded with Chinese pleasure seekers and the incomes of the ballrooms on that night were said to be well over $1,000,000. On the same night, 82 bodies were picked up from streets by the Shanghai Public Benevolent Cemetery. Among the bodies picked up on Christmas eve, only 23 were those of adults. On Christmas Day, 32 dead adults and 47 dead children were collected.

Cleaning Up The Flower Garden

Some Timely Suggestions For Preparing The Garden This Spring

As soon as the snow has melted and the ground is beginning to dry, work can start in the garden. If the tops of the perennials were not cut off in fall they should now be removed and any branches or other trash that has collected on the beds should be carefully raked off. If a much of rainware was used in fall, the fine part of the material can be dug in to add humus to the soil. At this time an application of a commercial fertilizer with the formula 4-8-10 can be scattered on the surface and dug in, advises Miss Isabella Preston, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Any broken or damaged branches should be removed from shrubs and trees, being careful to make a clean cut and not to leave ugly stubs on the trees. Late blooming shrubs can be pruned at this time.

In the rose garden it is a mistake to remove the protecting material all at once. If boards (or brush) were laid over the mulch they should be removed first and a fork thrust into the straw or leaves in order to lift them a little so that air can get in. In a week or so if the weather is suitable the top layer of straw can be removed and the remainder taken off gradually. If the nights are very cold and the days dry and sunny the mound of earth should be left over the lower part of the rose bush until the soil is beginning to warm up and the roots are waking up from the winter sleep. The dry winds and hot sun frequently damage the stems by drying before the roots are sufficiently active to supply the moisture necessary to keep them in good condition.

Famous Phrase

Prime Minister Churchill's Statement Given New Variation

Prime Minister Churchill's famous phrase about the civilian population and the Royal Air Force—"Never have so many owed so much to so few"—is being extensively paraphrased, Columbia Broadcasting system reported from London.

One example that has found its way into print, CBS reported, is the form Hitler's tribute would take to the Italian forces:

"Never have so many done so little in such a long time."

Another variation cited was in connection with the Balkan situation:

"Never have there been so many who knew so little about so much."

Unanimous Response

When Winston Churchill became Britain's Prime Minister last May, the Commons in a confidence vote supported him 381 to 0. In a recent week he sought, for the first time since then, another vote of confidence. He got it. There was a unanimous shout of "Yes."

Want Balkan Crops

One reason why Germany and Italy desire to win their Balkan victories without fighting is that they hope to secure the crops of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Rumania, which might be difficult if fighting began.

Britain's Food Needs

Must Be Met In Great Part By Her Farmers

Robert Hudson, Minister of Agriculture, said that "unless British farmers pull their weight we might next winter hear a child say 'I'm hungry'." The British Broadcasting Corporation reported.

Mr. Hudson, in announcing that no farmers will be called up for military service until after the harvest, said that "we must, by hook or by crook, produce every ounce of food possible although less and less imported seedlings are available."

In view of the importance of food production, the Minister of Labor and National Service, Ernest Bevin, had agreed that farmers should not be called up.

"Agriculture is in the very front line of our defence," the Minister said. "As the war spreads the demands on our shipping must become more and more severe."

"The soil has become the nation's might and it must be made to produce food for man and beast."

Five Fascist Warships Are Destroyed By The British Fleet

London.—The Mediterranean fleet, finally getting an Italian force within range of its big guns, sank five Fascist warships in its greatest naval triumph of the war, but came to blows anew with Britain's former ally, France, the admiralty announced.

Three of the Italian ships sunk were 10,000-ton cruisers—the sister ships Flume, Pola and Zara—and two were the destroyers Vincenzo Gioberto and Macirole.

Fragmentary British air and naval bulletins had listed a battletship of Italy's big, new 35,000-ton Littorio class among the warships damaged in the battle.

Just where or how the Italian ships were sent to the bottom, a brief communication did not tell. But according to its account, not one British sailor even was wounded.

"No casualties or damage were sustained by His Majesty's ships throughout the recent operations," the communiqué said. Britain's only cost was two planes "not yet accounted for."

Elated admiralty officials said they were astonished at the low price Admiral Sir Andrew B. Cunningham's forces had to pay for slicing three more first-line fighting ships from Italy's already badly dented sea forces and could not recall when such a feat ever had been accomplished before.

In the west, near Gibraltar at the other end of the sea, meanwhile, British ships and French guns traded blows.

The clash came when British warships moved to stop the flow of goods to France which they suspect is reaching Germany.

French shore batteries in Algeria, on the North African coast, opened fire on British warships which stopped a convoy of four merchantmen carrying "important war material for Germany," the admiralty said, and French bombing planes later attacked the British vessels.

An informed British source said one of the four French ships was loaded with rubber from Bangkok, Thailand, for Germany and emphasized that the navy's action was no departure from its usual policy of "visit and search" for all ships carrying war material for the enemy.

Japanese Drive Fails

Troops Suffered Heavy Casualties In Northern China Province

Chungking.—A Japanese military drive in northern Kiangsi province has collapsed after Japanese troops suffered 20,000 casualties in 10 days of fighting Chinese forces, a Chinese military spokesman said.

The spokesman said that the entire Ikeda brigade of 9,000 men had been wiped out. Chinese military quarters said that Chinese victories in northern Kiangsi province had resulted in complete failure of the Japanese spring offensive, for which careful preparations were said to have been made.

Canadian Navy Units Assist In Capture Of Two Danish Vessels

Ottawa.—Navy Minister Macdonald disclosed officially that Royal Canadian Navy units operating in West Indies waters assisted in the recent capture of two Danish ships.

"The addition of these two (Danish) ships adds about 18,000 tons to the mercantile marine service of the empire," the minister told The Canadian Press.

Mr. Macdonald's announcement did not name the Danish ships. However, he made it after he was questioned on an Associated Press despatch from New York, which quoted shipping circles as saying "a Canadian auxiliary cruiser" had intercepted the 8,371-ton Scandia and the 9,119-ton Christian Holm, two Danish motor tankers.

The despatch said the tankers had been released by a British prize court at Trinidad "to be used in defence of the realm."

"Units of the R.C.N. have been serving in West Indies waters for some time," Mr. Macdonald said.

"In this instance two Canadian patrol vessels acted in co-operation and under the direction of a Dutch

War Services Drive

Sir Edward Beatty Reports Enthusiasm Shown In Campaign Toronto.—Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., honorary chairman of the war services fund campaign national committee, issued the following statement:

"From all parts of Canada, come most inspiring reports of tremendous enthusiasm attending the opening of our war services fund campaign. The people of Canada are facing their duty with a smile and with a determination to carry through to victory. To all concerned, this is greatly heartening, and it will be no less so, to our sons, brothers and friends who have stepped into the fighting lines, to stand to the last, between totalitarian slavery and the free way of living. Thinking and doing, that is the foundation of our life in this country.

"The proximity of the new deadline to Greenland attracted immediate attention here, because authorities have made it known on several occasions that Greenland is considered a part of the hemisphere and, as such, covered by the Monroe Doctrine. Two United States coast guard cutters, both of them armed, were believed now operating in the vicinity of Greenland as part of the neutrality patrol. Since Germany occupied Denmark last year the United States has shown increasing interest in the two Danish crown possessions, Greenland and Iceland, with Greenland receiving the larger share of attention.

Greenland contains valuable cryolite mica, said to be the world's only commercial source of the important mineral used in refining aluminum—an essential in aircraft construction.

Several months ago a United States consulate was opened in Greenland to look out for American interests. The United States meanwhile has been the colony's supply source for the foodstuffs and medicines which were cut off by the occupation of Denmark.

Greenland and Iceland recently have been mentioned as possible North Atlantic "stepping stones" for delivery of aircraft to Britain.

Air Force Story

Pamphlet Of Battle Of Britain Has Great Sale In London

London.—Britons, long familiar with the story of the Royal Air Force's defence of the island's skies against Nazi raiders, still like to read about it.

The first printing of 50,000 copies of an air ministry pamphlet entitled "The Battle of Britain," sold out less than 48 hours after going on sale.

A second printing of 500,000 was ordered and is in progress.

The 30-page, 10,000-word pamphlet caught the fancy of the air-minded British public; it has a vivid story to tell and tells it beautifully. The price, threepence (about five cents) is within the range of every pocket. Wide publicity helped boost the sale.

Because of the newspaper shortage the government preferred to print too few rather than too many copies.

Help Greece War Effort

London.—Supplies of tin, rubber, hemp, hides, chemicals and coffee have been shipped to Greece from British colonies, the colonial office said, to help in the Greek war effort.

COMMANDS WESTERN APPROACHES

Taking Britannia's corner in the forthcoming "Battle of the Atlantic" is Admiral Sir Percy Noble, above, one of England's foremost naval strategists, who has been chosen to command the western approaches to Great Britain, the vital defence area in the life-and-death struggle expected at this spring.

Patrol Vessel Lost

H.M.C.S. Otter Destroyed By Fire With Heavy Loss Of Life

Halifax.—Fire at sea sent 19 men of the Royal Canadian Navy to death. Flames suddenly enveloping H.M.C.S. Otter, a patrol vessel, drove her crew into the lifeboats off Halifax and only 22 of her complement of 41 survived a raging Atlantic.

Two officers and 17 men were drowned or died of shock and exposure, the department of naval services announced here. Two officers and 20 men were saved by a merchant ship and another war vessel.

Seven of the lost seamen had next-of-kin living in Nova Scotia; four in Ontario, three each in Quebec and Prince Edward Island and two in Manitoba. The dead officers were both Nova Scotians.

Lieut. Denis S. Mossman, of Halifax, commander of the converted yacht, was saved in the hazardous rescue that saw lifeboats of the assisting merchantman smashed after one of the Otter's lifeboats had been swamped and its occupants thrown into the windswept Atlantic.

Flames enveloped the Otter suddenly as she was on patrol off Sambro Light, at the mouth of Halifax harbor. The one-time luxury craft converted into an auxiliary after the outbreak of war, was soon aflame from stem to stern.

Will Be Great Advantage

British Navy Given Use Of U.S. Drydocks For Repairs

Washington.—The opening of American navy yards for repair of damaged British men-o-war may give Britain a great strategic advantage in her Battle of the Atlantic.

Use of the naval repair facilities, authorized by terms of the lease-lend act, would not interfere with the huge United States fleet construction program but their availability would increase the British convoy efficiency in the western Atlantic.

Under the lease-lend provision it was explained, the United States is extending to British fighting ships, in effect, the same privileges accorded to British merchant vessels. Since the war began.

LONDON'S MOP AND DUSTER ARMY

With all available men at the front, these women form part of the "mop and duster" army that replaces them as porters in all branches of industry. This particular brigade is attached to the subway trains. Each day they go underground to declare war on dirt and grime.

Successful Raids Of Royal Air Force In Enemy Territory

Visit From Their Majesties

The King And Queen Enjoyed Day With Canadian Second Division

Somewhere in England.—Bugles blared and a pipe band skirled a military welcome as the King and Queen paid their first visit to the Canadian Second Division. Everywhere the royal couple went during their six-hour tour thousands of Canadians broke their lines and circled the visitors, cheering them with tin hats hoisted on their rifles and waved wildly in the air.

The King took the cheers at the salute and the Queen smiled her thanks. Calls were made on every unit in the division by Their Majesties, accompanied by Maj.-Gen. Victor Odium, general officer commanding the division, several colonels, and the divisional general staff.

When the royal car finally moved off for the last time Their Majesties told the general it was "one of our happiest days." They said they were "tremendously impressed" with the way the division was preparing for battle.

British Success

Capture Main Strongholds Of Italians In East Africa

Cairo.—The British command announced that its troops had stormed and occupied Cheret, East Africa's major stronghold of Italian resistance, and captured Harar, second city of Ethiopia.

Thus crumbled what may prove to be the last ramparts of Italy's African empire.

Cheret, mountain key to Eritrea's capital, Asmara, 45 miles to the southeast, had been defended for seven weeks by 35,000 crack Fascist troops under the command of the Duke of Aosta.

Italian troops were streaking toward Asmara under a heavy barrage of British shells and air bombs, but British authorities warned against too sanguine hopes that the capture of Asmara would follow soon.

Census Will Be Taken

Government Has Decided Not To Postpone This Work

Ottawa.—Trade Minister MacKinnon told the House of Commons the 1941 census would be taken and not postponed as had been suggested in opposition speeches.

Mr. MacKinnon said the information obtained in the census was much more extensive and different in character than that obtained on the national registration last summer. The new census would gather important information on housing conditions which would be of use in post-war reconstruction plans.

New Government In Yugoslavia Results From Revolt Of People

Belgrade.—Revolt against Axis alignment took control with force of the army behind it.

The public, vigorously disapproving the Axis pact, cheered the new regime and called with increasing fervor for war against Germany.

The stormy Belgrade populace seemed to accept as a foregone conclusion that the new government would repudiate wholly the regency regime and one prominent Yugoslav summed it up this way:

"If this government doesn't resist, we'll get another one that will."

The rush of men to the colors was swift. Trains, automobiles and taxicabs were commandeered to take them to the frontiers; military trucks rumbled through the streets; and overhead the sky was filled with Yugoslavia's warplanes.

German and Italian nationalists, gaily triumphant such a little time before, frantically tried to get out of the country.

A new government headed by the tough old air corps chief, Gen. Dusan Simovic, with the 17-year-old King Peter handed full sovereignty, gave short shrift to the apologetic German ambassador, Viktor Von Heeren.

Von Heeren rushed to the foreign London.—The air ministry news service declared that in the recent series of Royal Air Force raids on Bremen 1,000 persons were killed and 7,000 injured. Bremen is a great seaport, in northwest Germany, on the Weser river. The casualty figures were contained in a statement of results of British bombing of Germany. Bremen has been attacked three times. Exactly how the authorities obtained the casualty figures was not disclosed.

The air force pounded German industrial centres of Cologne and Dusseldorf with "many heavy bombs" in overnight raids extending from the Rhine to the invasion ports of Dunkirk, Brest and Calais on the Nazi-held French coast, the air ministry announced.

In the war at sea, the admiralty announced the submarine Parthian had torpedoed a 6,000-ton supply or troop ship and a 10,000-ton tanker in an Italian-escorted convoy south of Italy.

The R.A.F. night air assault, a communiqué said, followed up daylight bombs and machine-gun assaults on German naval and supply ships from the Frisian Islands to the coast of Brittany and produced "good results."

Despite a thick ground haze, pilots of the bomber command found their targets at Cologne and Dusseldorf, setting off fires and explosions among factories and railroad yards.

Two especially large fires were observed at Cologne, returning pilots related, and at Dusseldorf flashes from bursting bombs were declared "clearly visible in the factory area to the east of the Rhine and near the main railroad station."

Bombers of the same command attacked docks at Dunkirk and Calais and the naval base at Brest.

The authoritative magazine, "The Aeroplane," said that a very large part, perhaps the bulk, of Germany's air force was being based in Rumania and Bulgaria on the theory that the force which commands the air along the Turkish and Greek frontiers could move troops through the passes.

"That will be our opportunity to strike with all the force at our command, by day as well as by night, stabbing deep into the heart of Germany while the Luftwaffe is hotly engaged on the eastern frontiers," the magazine said. "Such a stroke might well throw into confusion the whole German summer offensive."

Civilians killed in air raids on Britain since the war began total 28,859 and the seriously injured 40,166, it was announced. The figures were disclosed at Newcastle by Ellen Wilkinson, joint parliamentary secretary to the ministry of home security. She added that military air raid fatalities in Britain were about one-fiftieth of the civilian total.

Funny Answer

Bill Nye, the humorist, was once giving a lecture in the famous old Boston Theatre, when a farmer arose in the far reaches of the gallery and called out: "Speak louder, please, so I can hear."

Quick as a flash, Nye cried back: "Why don't you pay more and come nearer?"

And equally quick came the Yankee's rejoinder: "Cause it isn't worth it."—Toronto Globe and Mail.

Note on all-out national defence: "Thirty-one future soldiers entrained at Trenton, N.J., at 7.45 the other morning. The local Draft Board, considering the hour too early and the weather too cold for the usual brass band, sent the boys away to martial music played on a phonograph over an amplifier at the railroad station."—Pittsburgh Press.

THE FUNCTIONS OF THE PRESS

This is one of a series of editorials specially designed to acquaint our readers with the various functions of the Press in a democratic community.

Editorial No. 1

THE FUNCTIONS OF THE PRESS

Commencing next week it is our intention to feature an editorial each week for a period of nine weeks, outlining the functions of the press in a democratic community and its relationship to the various phases of community life. There is considerable ignorance as to the position and prerogatives of the press in the area it serves. This lack of knowledge is almost entirely the fault of the press itself, because it has neglected the important duty of making its readers conversant with the fundamental principles involved in the publication of a community newspaper. The series seeks to make amends for the omissions of the past, and to present in simple language an explanation of the main relationships between the newspaper, its readers, its community and its associations with organizations, business group and institutions within the realm it seeks to serve.

The nine phases to be discussed are: The Freedom of the Press, The Press and Government, The Press and the Churches, The Press and the Advertisers, The Press and Propaganda, The Functions of a Reporter, The Press and Local History, and The Guarantee of Freedom. We sincerely hope that our readers will carefully study and digest the series, because we believe that it will give them a new understanding of their local newspaper, and the historical purpose of its mission in the community.

Theatre Notes

Presenting one of the greatest all-star casts in the history of motion pictures, and utilizing this billion-dollar talent in a story that is built for fast action and thrills, "Boom Town" opens next Saturday at Cole's Theatre for an engagement of 3 days as one of the most thrilling and spectacular productions to come out of Hollywood in some time.

With Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr in stellar roles, "Boom Town" surpasses in star names even that former "greatest of thrill pictures," the air epic "Test Pilot" which had Gable, Tracy, Myrna Loy and Lionel Barrymore at the head of the cast.

Thrill-Packed Action

These players join hands in presenting a thrill-packed human-interest story which shows Gable and Tracy in a total of five fights, one of which is a terrific battle between themselves, the frantic fight to blast out a roaring oil well fire, gunners bearing upward with mighty roars, a spouting water geyser, Gable on a bucking mule, a dive into a sea of mud by Gable and Tracy to escape the bullets of two gun fighters, a fight between two dance hall girls, a dramatic hold-up of a load of oil equipment, in addition to comedy by Morgan, Wills and Miss Gombell and even the songs of the men who spud in for oil.

They Rely on You

For the things that are not given to a fighting man with his uniform... things that are not part of his military equipment... things of the spirit... Canada's fighting sons, wherever they may be, rely on you.

The Government provides them with uniforms, rifles, ammunition—but for comforts—recreations and wholesome opportunity to make their precious moments of leisure a genuine boon... they rely on you.

Of course you help to buy airplanes, guns, ships, tanks—BUT for the things that express to the soldier the affection and thoughtfulness of the folks back home... he relies on you.

Six great national organizations labour unceasingly to provide him with those things.

They can do it only with your money.

Your money started this work—your money is needed to carry it on.

The need is urgent. Be generous.

Let the volunteer helper who calls on you carry back your pledge of fullest support for our fighting men.

His Turn

A club of eccentric young men had for one of their rules that on Tuesday evenings any man who asked in the clubroom a question which he was unable to answer himself should pay a fine of ten shillings. One evening Tomkinson asked: "Why doesn't a ground squirrel leave any dirt around the top of his hole when he digs it?" After some deliberation he was called upon to answer his own question.

"That's easy," he said, "The squirrel starts at the bottom and digs up."

"All very nice," suggested a member, "but how does it get to the bottom?"

"That's your question," answered Tomkinson. —Tit-Bits.

Build Dreadnaughts

United States Plans To Build Five Under Two-Ocean Fleet Program

U.S. naval experts said the next five United States battleships to be built under the two-ocean fleet program would be from 60,000 to 65,000-ton Dreadnaughts—the world's largest.

Representative Melvin J. Maas (Rep., Minnesota), senior minority member of the house naval committee, said he had been informed the super-battleships would be of 58,000 "treaty" tons but when fully armed and armored would displace approximately 65,000 tons.

Maas added that he understood the ships were among the seven for which the navy let contracts last Sept. 9.

Maas said there was possibility the new Dreadnaughts would carry 18-inch guns in their main batteries instead of the 16-inch type, now the navy's largest. On the other hand, he added, the navy might continue to use 16 inches but add to their number. The 35,000-ton ships mount nine such weapons while the 45,000-tonners will have 12.

A Timely Question

Are Individual Canadians Proving Worthy Of British People's Sacrifice

When Winston Churchill said the first war aim of the British people was to be worthy of the love of the people of the Dominions, he spoke of an aim that has already been attained. Never in history has a great nation drawn to itself such a surge of burning love and admiration as that which pours in on Great Britain to-day from all over the globe, and never in history has a great nation deserved more nobly. We in the Dominions are proud, proud to belong to the Empire, proud to have a part in the struggle, proud to be partners with such a people and to claim them as our own before the world.

They, as their Prime Minister has said, have wished to be worthy of our love and pride. What aim have we? Are we proving ourselves worthy of them? Is our conduct such that the British people may be proud of us, proud not merely of our love but proud of what we are doing? We have done something.

We have sent to the fight soldiers, sailors and airmen, second to none in the world. They are worthy of anyone's admiration. But are we at home working with all our available energy for the winning of the war? Are we subordinating everything to that end?

That is needed. If our friends across the sea are to be saved from an appalling fate, if freedom is to be saved, we shall have to be prepared for sacrifices such as we have not yet really contemplated. What we are asked to do at present is not to make sacrifices but to lend our money with assurance of full return. That is only a little bit and it is something we can do for a beginning. It is something we should do gladly and at once.—Toronto Evening Telegram.

SCALLOPED BUTTON-FRONT STYLE

ITALIAN PLANE FLOWN TO BRITISH BASE

A strange message was sent to British air bases in Africa at the beginning of March; to wit, that an Italian plane flying over British lines was not to be fired upon or engaged in battle. The reason was simple. The Italian bomber, a huge three-engine Caproni 133, had made a forced landing in a river bed in Eritrea and had been captured thereupon by British Indian troops. It was refuelled. The Italian fliers also captured, were persuaded to start the motors and take the plane aloft. Thereupon a British pilot took over the controls. The plane was not engaged in battle, but even so, when it landed at the British air base it was surrounded by troops with bayonets drawn, who were taking no chance. The R.A.F. squadron leader is describing his strange flying experience to his fellow fliers.

Always Has Orchids

Woman Helps Care For Them In Her Own Greenhouse

Doris Lager, of Summit, N.J., is one woman who has always had all the orchids she wants. She helps raise and care for 50,000 orchid plants in the greenhouse in which she and her brother inherited a half interest from their father. Doris has been fascinated by orchids since the day when, as a little girl just big enough to peer over a table top, she watched orchid seeds being sown in a glass flask. As soon as she was old enough she began to work with plants. Now, with a big waterproof apron tied over her frock, she spends hours every day among the exotic blooms.

Pigeons For Air Force

Appeal Made In U.S. For 3,000 Young Homing Pigeons

The committee to defend America by aiding the Allies appealed for 3,000 young homing pigeons to reinforce British military communications. Two hundred birds are required for shipment.

Thomas E. Black, president of the New York and New Jersey centre of the American Racing Pigeon Union, co-operating with the committee in the appeal, said he has been informed that every Royal Air Force plane carries a homing pigeon. If the plane is forced down in water the pigeon is released with a message enabling planes or ships to be sent to the rescue.

Shelter Belts And Gardens

It has been found that about 97 per cent. of the prairie farmers with established shelter belts have vegetable gardens and 41 per cent. are growing small fruits. While this is not too high a percentage it compares favorably with the thousands of homesteads where few or no trees have been planted.

Tariff On British Goods

Action Should Be Taken To Increase Trade With Britain

It is sometimes suggested, in answer to the proposal to give free entry to British goods for the duration of the war, that the Government has already done much by way of reduction in the preferential tariff. The Government, undoubtedly, has done a great deal to stimulate imports from Britain, but much may still be done.

There is, for example, the tariff on woollens. On a ten-ounce shipment of wool yarn cleared from customs on December 9, the appraised value was $2.09. On this the tariff was 32 cents, being a combination of ad valorem and specific duties. This raised the price to $2.41 and on this price the sales tax was imposed—8 per cent., to yield 19 cents. The total of tariff and sales tax was 51 cents, whereas the straight sales tax on the import price would have been only 17 cents.

There is certainly room for improvement here.—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Pig Story

Case Was Complicated But The Farmer's Hog Was Returned

Artemus Knuckles of Fort Wayne, Ind., sued in justice of the peace court to get back a pig that had wandered onto a neighbor's farm and been confiscated. His lawyer was David Hogg. Hogg cited a decision in a like case given by Sullivan Circuit Judge Martin L. Pigg. Pigg's decree was based on an opinion of Indiana Supreme Court Judge John G. Berkshire. But Justice William Moberly didn't have to rule on the question, was the pig Knuckles'. Knuckles and neighbor settled the case out of court. Knuckles paid $5 for the hog's keep and the neighbor gave him his hog back.

CHRIST PROMISES POWER

Golden text: But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you; and ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. Acts 1:8.

Lesson: Luke 24:48, 49; Acts 1:8.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 12:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

The Great Commission, Acts 1:6-8. They therefore, when they were come together, asked him, saying, Lord, dost thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?

There are some things which we need not and cannot know. By his answer Jesus gently rebuked the disciples' curiosity, saying, "It is not for you to know times or seasons, which the Father hath set within his own authority."

"But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you," Jesus promised them. "They were still looking at the things that are seen, and their Master was still looking at the things that are not seen. They were looking for the re-ordering of circumstances. He was looking for the transformation of character. They were asking for carnal dominion; he was for a spiritual dynamic. They wanted to make a broken people into a kingdom. He was willing to make individual men into kings" (J. H. Jowett).

Ye shall be my witnesses: the words of the Acts records the story of their fulfilment of this commission. "The sum of the Gospels is, 'Christ's life for us'; the sum of the Acts is, 'Our lives for Christ's children'." They were to bear their witness in Jerusalem (recorded in chapters 1-7 of Acts), in all Judea and Samaria (recorded in Acts 8:1-9:35) and unto the uttermost part of the earth, represented by Rome, the capital of the Empire, where, as Irenaeus said, "All meet from every quarter" (recorded in Acts 11:19-28, 30). A statement of this final commission of Christ to his followers is given at the close of these Synoptic Gospels.

"We have then our commission—in Jerusalem (city missions), and in Judea (home missions), and in Samaria (what does that mean?—Why, the people of your special aversion, as the Samaritans were to these people. To you it means Jews of the native or Chinese, it means whatever excites, not your sympathy, but your apathy or your antipathy), and to the uttermost rim of the inhabited part of the earth" (foreign missions)." (Maitland D. Babcock).

Gardening

In recent years there has been a vast improvement in the varieties of vegetables available for planting in Canada. This has been accomplished in two ways; first by the introduction of vegetables unfamiliar to most Canadians and, second, and probably more important, by vastly better quality in those varieties that have been grown in this country for years.

Of the vegetables new to most Canadians there are several worth a trial in any garden. Brussels sprouts, broad beans, broccoli, large wrinkled sugar peas, Chinese cabbage, chives, endive, egg plant, leeks, peppers, and Swiss chard. Full descriptions will be found in any Canadian seed catalogue.

Longer Seasons

In regular vegetables there has been improvement all down the line, with the object of getting more flavor, succulence and a longer season. Corn is a typical example. At one time it was only possible to get one variety of Golden Bantam. Cobs were short, and the season also. Now there are offered three or four different Bantam types, some extra early, some regular season, some late. Cobs have become lengthened, and the husks bigger. One can enjoy the finest table corn for over a month instead of but a week or two as in the old days.

Seed Catalogues Help

A good Canadian seed catalogue is really the amateur's most indispensable of reference books. In addition to giving him actual color photographs of the native flowers and vegetables, it furnishes actual planting directions.

These books tell whether a certain variety is suitable to Canada, and also give important points such as time of planting, resistance or lack of resistance to frost, height, color, season of blooming, whether scented, and also the suitability of the flower for cutting purposes. All of these points should be taken into consideration in planning a real garden, authorities state, as only with such knowledge can a comprehensive and practical scheme be worked out.

For full sun, especially if planted close to a South wall where there is little protection from summer heat, there are things like coccinella, California and other poppies, portulaca or climbing morning glories and nasturtium, which love the sun and give remarkable results even in a sieve of dry weather.

Doing His Bit

"I hardly knew your father to-day," remarked the district visitor to the little girl of the house. "He has cut his beard again. That's the third time in a year."

"It ain't father that's done it," exclaimed the child. "Father likes the beard on but ye see mother's stuffin' the sofa."

Health

LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

HARMFUL BACTERIA

The head of a pin, if covered with a single layer of bacteria, would accommodate about half a million of them, according to a spokesman for the Health League of Canada discussing germs or bacteria to-day. He explained that the terms are two names for the same thing.

After reviewing the work of Leewenhock, Pasteur and Lister in bacteriological research, the speaker stated that bacteria were of two kinds, harmful and beneficial, and that these low forms of plant life are of prime importance since they produce profound changes in nature. Upon the science of bacteriology, though it is less than a century old, rests the structure of disease prevention and, to a large degree, agriculture and even of life itself, he declared.

Among beneficial bacteria were mentioned those which grow in the roots of clover, alfalfa and certain members of the bean family. These make substances useful as soil fertilizers. Others were those which produce flavor in cheese, and those which are useful in the curing of hams or the manufacture of such products as jule, linen, hemp, cocoa matting, tobacco, alcohol, etc.

Harmful bacteria cause many of the most serious diseases, including anthrax, cholera, pneumonia, tuberculosis, leprosy, tetanus, typhoid fever, as well as the communicable diseases of childhood and the common cold.

He described how the germs of such diseases as whooping cough and ordinary colds are spread, by the coughing or sneezing of the victim spraying the air with fine droplets which are loaded with bacteria. Many more persons would become infected than is actually the case, said the speaker, were it not for the fact that most disease-producing germs cannot live long outside the body. They require moisture and a heat of about the temperature of the body, and cannot long survive exposure to air and drying.

He concluded with some simple directions for avoiding ordinary infections and conveying infection to others: avoiding contact with disease; covering the mouth when sneezing or coughing; using always individual towels, etc., washing hands before eating and before going to bed, taking care not to use common drinking vessels, etc.

Earns A Commission

David Croll, Of Windsor, Has Completed Officer's Course

There will be general satisfaction in Windsor over the news that Mr. David A. Croll has been commissioned as an officer. Mr. Croll, a married man with a family, could quite easily have decided that there was no call for him to join the Canadian Active Service Force. Even when he did decide to offer his services few would have blamed him had he waited until he could qualify for a commission before getting into uniform. He was, however, one of the first Windsor men to enlist in the ranks, and his comrades in the Essex Scottish testify to the fact that he was a good soldier, asking and receiving no favors. He chose to go up the ladder the hard way. He served for months as a private. Now he has successfully completed his course at one of the famous army schools in England, and he is the holder of the King's commission. His ability will without doubt make him a fine officer.—Windsor Daily Star.

Has Plenty Of Cattle

Britain Is Slaughtering Some On Account Of Feed Shortage

An "appreciable number" of cattle on British farms must be slaughtered because of feed shortage, Robert Hudson, Minister of Agriculture, disclosed.

"I hope no one will run off with the idea that this is a panic policy of slaughter at any cost," Mr. Hudson said. "Few diseases in the case, the country's cattle population this autumn—even after the contemplated reduction in numbers—will be well in advance of the lowest point it touched in years after the last war."

CHAPTER I.

"Are you Miss Devona Raebourne?" Startled, Devona turned, faced a pair of the bluest eyes she'd ever seen. "Why—yes, I am."

The tall young man studied her deliberately. "Yes, of course. Same beautiful big eyes. Same perfect mouth. Your mother over again—brunette version. I should have known."

Devona, still perched on the battered steampunk trunk where she'd been marooned for the last anxious hour, experimented with a smile. "Are you Los Angeles' official greeter or is flatterer strange women just a pernicious habit?"

He grinned then and Devona felt her heart hesitate.

"No—neither. But if every ocean-rupting something? Couldn't I take a train or—"

He shrugged that aside. "I'm told to meet a little schoolgirl who'll cling, terrified, to my hand. 'Tm—tend—" He stared at her again frankly. "I find you."

Devona laughed, glanced around the huge dock, fastidiously empty now. "But I am terrified," Or, she had been a moment ago!

Dale's blue glance travelled coolly from the jaunty feather on her hat to the tips of her trim suede pumps. "Yes, you look it! I'm the one that should be terrified."

Her glance faltered, went down defeated while she fumbled for some bright retort. After all, 14 years in boarding schools or gray-walled convents, or crude mining camps with her engineer father hadn't prepared her for—well, this, for instance. And she wanted so much that this charming envoy from her mother's smart world shouldn't guess she was only a schoolgirl in disguise. Expensive disguise it had been, too. From a smart shop in Shanghai's International Quarter.

"Hope we can rush your luggage through," Dale said as they followed a dinky porter. "You wait here. I'll dig up an inspector."

Devona watched him stride off and wondered what it was about him that made her think of Norse Vikings and valiant sailing ships and Valhallas. He wasn't exactly handsome but his smile and the clear, blue flame of his eyes made you forget that. And his nice voice. Voices mattered. She'd learned that in the out-of-the-way corners of the world where language doesn't matter and you detected friend or enemy from the shadows in his voice. There were no shadows in Dale's deep tones.

Something in his manner commanded good service, too. The inspection was brief, and in another moment Dale was tipping a porter, leading Devona to a smart blue coupe at the curbing just outside the huge gray building marked Pier 29. "I told Vava we'd try to make Palm Springs by dinner," he said as he guided the powerful car into the stream of traffic threading toward the city. "She's taken a place out there for the winter, you know."

Devona didn't know, but she nodded. There was so much she didn't know about her beautiful actress mother. But, she hugged the thought ago I thought she was the most beautiful woman I'd ever seen." Then, abruptly as they waited for a traffic light. "Did anyone ever tell you your own face would launch a couple of fleets?"

Flushing, Devona hid her embarrassment behind a laugh. "You look like your mother," Dad had told her often. And "if anything ever happens to me, go to Vava. She'll love you."

The traffic light changed and the blue coupe moved swiftly ahead.

"She's made a marvellous success of her career, hasn't she?" Devona persisted.

"On the stage, yes. She won't have anything to do with movies, you know. Camera men are too cold, she says. She wants audience response. I guess she could have had some pretty sweet contracts, too."

"That sounds like her," Devona smiled. "It was never money that mattered, Dad said."

She felt Dale's glance flick across her face. "No?"

"Oh, no. Just so long as she could be in the theatre—"

"How come you don't hate her?" he interrupted suddenly.

"Hate her?"

"She turned you out, didn't she, when you were just a baby?"

"Oh, it wasn't like that," Devona defended her instantly. "She had to give us up—for her art. I went with Daddy so I wouldn't be in the way and because Daddy needed me."

"Oh, I see." His smile had a strange little twist.

Obviously he didn't see, and that aroused a nagging little fear that had nipped the hem of her mind for days—ever since she'd sent that cable from Bombay. What if her mother didn't want her? What if Dad had been mistaken?

Devona shrugged aside that worry. Tense, overworked from the shock of her father's sudden death, then. The great sorrow had come with the week in a blunt message telling of the explosion aboard a company launch and of her father's instant death.

But the great love—Sharply she caught back that thought. School-girl dreaming over a fortune teller's promises. How Dale would laugh if he could read her thoughts!

Right now, he was guiding the big car in toward the curbing, snapping off the motor.

VISITS HULL

The newly appointed minister from Canada, Mr. Leighton McCarthy, is shown leaving the office of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, after his first official visit since arriving in Washington.

threatening stagefright. "You make me sound like a side-show attraction."

Dale cocked an eyebrow at her. "You're an attraction, all right." Then, almost as if he'd forgotten she was there. "That's going to make it tough."

"Why? Is it against the rules to be attractive in Palm Springs?"

"No." He laughed at her. "But, it's dangerous."

They were pushing through crowd traffic and for awhile Dale gave his attention to lights and crossings.

Dangerous? Devona wondered. What was dangerous? And why did some instinct keep telling her something wasn't just right? Certainly it wasn't Dale Brasher. If some one had said make a wish, it couldn't have been granted more perfectly.

By careful, sideling glances she discovered that it was his high cheekbones and clear, squarish jawline that gave the impression of bold strength. And the fanning sun-lines around his eyes, explained his dark, even tan.

Then suddenly, Devona remembered what an old Indian fakir had pretended to read in the sand that happy day less than a month ago when she and her father had spent a holiday in Bombay.

"Daughter of a strange destiny," the fakir had muttered, peering at the white sand in his tray, "a great sorrow and a great love will enter your soul before another moon. And the love will be more cruel than the sorrow."

"Time out for lunch," he said, smiling at her. "And I hope you don't mind if I combine a little business with pleasure. After all, I'm just a poor, hard-working man, you know."

Devona glanced at the expensive, well-tailored suit, at the handsome leather brief case he pulled off the back shelf. "Not too hard-working," she teased, took his hand as he helped her out of the car.

Dale shook his head. "I'll be on relief pretty soon if this chap in here doesn't come through with some information that I'm after," he said, as they walked toward the ultra-Spanish white and red-tiled building where even in the noonday sunshine a neon sign blazed EL MEXICANO in red letters. "This isn't a swank place, but the atmosphere is supposed to be interesting and the chill is really good."

The chill and frijoles were excellent. And the "atmosphere" even better, Devona thought a little later, sipping excellent wine from a dark blue Mexican glass. Even the handsome manager who brought them thick, strong Mexican coffee himself, seemed chosen to match the "decor."

"Miss Raebourne, may I present Senor Macias," Dale introduced him. Senor Macias, looking as if he might have stepped out of a movie set or a romantic novel, bowed elegantly.

Fine English Tradition

A Letter To The New York Herald Tribune

I have read and heard a great many reasons why we should help the British, but it seems to me that the most important one is our love and admiration of England and all it means. The British Empire has always stood for civilization, and progress, and law and order. There is something of epic grandeur in just the name of England.

To me England means Queen Elizabeth and the glories and achievements of her age. It means dear old Dr. Johnson, and Charles Lamb working in the office of the East India Company by day and writing his essays at night with Mary. It means John Galsworthy and Somerset Maugham walking through the Green Park, and Val Darte on his farm in South Africa. It means Barchester Towers, and Jane Austen, and Katherine Mansfield, with her delicate, imaginative stories.

It means A. Edward Newton browsing in the old bookshops of his beloved London—and it means the millions of brave people who are fighting and suffering that these things may be theirs and their children's forever.—Ruth Jerome Noble, New York.

Tribute To Banting

Made The Greatest Contribution To Medical Science In Canada

It is difficult to predict exactly the place Sir Frederick Banting will hold in medical history, but it will be a very high place indeed, for a man whose name is inseparably associated with the cure or alleviation of some particular disease, or some specific advance in surgery. Whenever diabetes and the insulin method is being discussed Banting's name will inevitably be recalled, as Jenner's is in connection with smallpox, Lister's with antiseptic surgery, Simpson's with chloroform and Ross' with malaria. Insulin treatment is not infallible—few treatments are—but it is certain that tens of thousands of people are alive to-day who would be dead if Banting had not discovered insulin just 20 years ago.

In him Canada has made her greatest contribution to medical science.—London Spectator.

To Help Talented People

Famous Singer Donates Her $10,000 Award For This Purpose

Marian Anderson, acclaimed as one of the world's ranking singers, has pledged to charity and education the $10,000 Edward A. Bok award conferred upon her recently.

The 33-year-old colored singer, a native of Philadelphia, was presented the award on the stage of the Academy of Music before a distinguished audience that cheered as she responded, "I realize the big and deep significance of the honor."

"The money," she said, "shall enable some poor, unfortunate, but nevertheless talented people to do something of which they have dreamed all their young lives."

The award was established in 1921 by Edward A. Bok for the person who has "performed an act or contributed to a service... calculated to advance the best interest of Philadelphia," each year.

ANYONE CAN EASILY PLAY THE POPULAR GAY GUITAR

Diagram Makes It Simple For You

After winter sports, how delightful to relax with a guitar and a song! The guitar almost plays itself after you've learned the trick of accompanying a tune. You easily teach yourself "single" directions show how to read the diagrams for the chords used in accompaniments. Just study the guitar diagram for the "Little Brown Jug"—shown in our picture. Such diagrams are given in all popular music.

The vertical lines are the five strings, the cross lines are the frets or metal bars on your guitar finger-board. Just press the fingers of your left hand on the strings where the dots indicate.

Then, with your right hand, pluck the same strings over the sound hole, including strings marked "O." Accompanying the tune, on the first play the first string of the chord alone, on the other beats play the other strings together.

A little practice and you'll be called the old maestro!

Our 32-page instruction book explains the guitar in simple steps. Explains technique, elements of music. Gives table of chords, seven popular tunes.

Not A Besieged Fortress

Britain Open To Shipping And Navy Controls Traffic Lanes

It is customary to speak of the British Isles as a fortress under siege. In reality, however, the continent of Europe is more accurately described by that phrase in the opinion of J. W. T. Mason.

Great Britain is not besieged because it is open to shipping from the western world and the Orient. The European continent, however, is locked within itself, unable to maintain commercial intercourse with the rest of the world because of the British navy's control of the ocean traffic lanes.

Claims by Germany that British control of the seas has been destroyed can have been made only to stimulate home morale. There is not the slightest room for believing the axis can break down the British blockade under any future condition now foreseeable.

Certainly, as conditions exist today, the British navy has command of the sea and the axis is held within the continent of Europe, unable to break through to the outer world. With a speed-up of American shipbuilding for British account, Herr Hitler must have small hope that he can crush the British mercantile fleet.

Taking No Chances

They take no chances on anybody or anybody that drops from the skies in Britain. A Canadian airman, forced to land by parachute in rural England, was confronted by a burly farmer armed with a gun, behind him was the hired man with a huge cudgel, and bringing up the rear was the good housewife wielding an iron skillet. Hitler should heed this warning.

There are no land animals larger than insects between the south pole and latitude 60.

An acre was originally defined as the area a yoke of oxen could plow in a day.

"Of course. Thank you so much for bothering," Devona murmured. She should have known her mother would be too busy to meet her. Popular actresses didn't go around meeting boats. Still, disappointment pulled at her.

"No bother at all," Dale was saying. "I've played stand-in plenty of times but—never as parent. At that—" he scowled suddenly. "It's damned disconcerting."

Devona glanced up. "Am I inter-

"They're rehearsing the new play," Dale went on. "Going to try it in Hollywood before they take it on to New York."

"New York?" Devona smiled. Fourteen years ago she and her tall, prematurely-grayed father had sailed out of New York harbor to put an ocean between Douglas Raebourne and the woman he adored. Bitter quarrels, heart-breaking scenes, finally divorce—and still he'd never stopped loving her. He'd taught 5-year-old Devona to love her, too. "She's a beautiful woman, your mother," he'd say, studying her picture hungrily. "Some day when she's had enough of her play acting, she'll come back to us."

But she never had. The theatre claimed her, worshipped her, applauded her. And now Douglas Raebourne was dead. And—at long last—Devona was coming home.

"Tell me more about my mother," she begged eagerly. "Is she still very beautiful?"

Dale glanced at her, a strange little smile curving his nice mouth. "Well, until about fifteen minutes

Cantata to be Sung at St. Paul's United Church on Friday

"Olivet to Calvary" a sacred Cantata will be sung by St. Paul's United Church Choir assisted by members from Bellevue at the United church, Coleman, Good Friday evening at 8 o'clock. This promises to be a very attractive musical presentation.

The members of the Trail Rangers Boys' Group of the United church, Coleman, were successful in selling Star Shares in aid of the Provincial Boys' Work to the extent of $15.00. Owen Sherratt was the top salesman with over $5.00. The boys are grateful to all who contributed to this campaign.

11 a.m. Morning Worship. Subject: "Disciplined to the Kingdom."

12.15 p.m.—Sunday school.

6.45 p.m.—song service.

7 p.m. Evening Worship. Subject: "The Triumphal Entry."

A cordial welcome will be extended to all.

Word has been received that more than 600 Cathedrals, Churches and Mission Halls in Great Britain have been destroyed or damaged by enemy action. In London alone more than 100 Churches are damaged with 20 or 30 completely destroyed. In one terrible fortnight of bombing one third of the London Mission Centres were destroyed or damaged. Church members have been killed, wounded and evacuated. Congregations have been broken up. Churches have been gutted.

In response to this urgent need of British Churches the United Church of Canada is launching a drive to raise $50,000 to ease this condition.

C. A. T. S. Notes

The appearance of thirty smart blue uniforms in town makes this an opportunity to dwell on the benefits of wearing one. So many of our townsmen are cynically sceptical about the whole affair that we would like to say a few things to prove our point.

The wearing of a uniform doesn't just mean putting it on. Unlike any other wearing apparel, it can never be neglected in the slightest respect. It must always be immaculate and hence induces the wearer to a more careful grooming. Any signs of untidiness are soon forgotten when constant inspection enforces absolute neatness.

A uniform is a symbol of your loyalty and faith in our cause and is a standing sign of willingness to do one's part however small it may be. On the more practical side it encourages the wearing of comfortable low-heeled shoes and cotton stockings which, needless to say, are easy on the wartime pocket book.

Another point of scepticism is military drill. The very fact that it brings women out into the open for a healthy walk is argument in itself. So many of us have neglected that bit of easy exercise, that many of the C.A.T.S. have remarked on the improvement in their health and outlook. Nothing looks as bad as when you feel good.

The other benefits of the training received in the C.A.T.S. are from greasing a car to keeping without number. They range from greasing a car to keeping books and knowing what to do on the scene of an accident and in the home of the sick. Many of these things may never be used in war work but knowledge never hurt anyone and I say more power to those who take the opportunity to acquire it when it is offered on such simple terms. If the need of such trained women should arise it is better to be well prepared than to cram a lot of learning into a few weeks.

The first Dress Parade of the Coleman group will be a Church
Parade to the Anglican Church on Sunday, April 6. Their splendid appearance is worthy of praise.—Contributed.
